WELCOME TO SNEEZE-A-PALOOZA IN FLORIDA, TITAN FACULTY!

I hope you have your Benadryl and Claritin handy as we observe this pollen-y Spring! I am going to lean into my favorite topic in this email introduction: self-care. Please don't forget that while there are papers to grade, experiments to set up, and so much more, you are the thing that keeps the wheels moving! After all, successful students require successful faculty.

Some Unusual Self-Care Ideas:

• Dive into some nostalgia: Starting off on the unusual self care ideas list is hitting that nostalgia factor! Whether this is childhood cartoons, cringey songs you listened to in middle school, or looking back at old pictures, the familiarity of nostalgia is so comforting. If you've been overwhelmed by a lot of new stimuli lately, it helps to take a trip down memory lane!

Do any task you've been putting off that can be done in 2 minutes: You may have heard the "2-minute rule" by productivity consultant David Allen, which states, "if it takes less than two minutes, do it now."

- Scribble really hard on paper: You probably haven't done this since you were a kid, but you totally should. Getting that physical release of pent up frustration out can do wonders for any body anxiety you may be feeling. Tapping into physical sensations that help you feel a release is a great approach to these unusual self care ideas!
